21st September, 2018

Hosted by Okręgowa Izba Radców Prawnych w Warszawie and Okręgowa Rada Adwokacka w Warszawie as part of the 52nd Congress of the European Bars Federation

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

“In respect to Cambridge Analytica no-one suspected, that permitting a single application access to data will finally result in a case of accessing information on 87 million people.” Adam Bodnar

Adam Bodnar Commissioner for Human Rights (Polish Ombudsman)

“Secrecy of communication between attorney and client vis-a-vis secret services’ powers in contemporary world”

EUROPEAN CHALLENGES IN DATA PROTECTION

“At least in Europe, we consider the right to privacy a fundamental right and it is a very serious matter.” Jose Manuel Barroso

“Accountability is at the center of all this: of getting it right today, getting it right in May 2018, and getting it right beyond that.” Elizabeth Denham - Information Commissioner (on introduction of GDPR)

MODERATOR

Michele Lucherini President of the European Bars Federation

SPEAKERS

Izabela Konopacka *Chairman of the Internal Relations Committee of the Wrocław Bar Association;
Chairman of the New Technologies Committee of the European Bars Federation*

“New Technologies and Data Protection-Challenges for European Lawyers”

Francesco Tregnaghi attorney-at-law, member of Verona Bar Association Council and IT Commission

“An outline of the issues of implementation of the GDPR in the Dutch jurisdiction”

Erick Boyadjian

Vice President of the Toulouse Bar Association

“GDPR, its implementation in France and the changes it will induce, in the light of jurisprudence derived from the French Data Protection Act”

PANEL 2

GOVERNMENTS AND LIMITATION OF PRIVACY: HOW FAR CAN THEY GO?

“In digital era, privacy must be a priority. Is it just me, or is secret blanket surveillance obscenely outrageous?” Al Gore

“Arguing that you don't care about privacy because you have nothing to hide is no different than saying you don't care about free speech because you have nothing to say.” Edward Snowden

“I grew up with the understanding that the world I lived in was one where people enjoyed a sort of freedom to communicate with each other in privacy, without it being monitored, without it being measured or analyzed or sort of judged by these shadowy figures or systems, any time they mention anything that travels across public lines.” Edward Snowden

Dominique Attias

Vice President of the FBE; former Vice President of the Paris Bar Association

SPEAKERS

Wojciech Wiewiórowski

Assistant Supervisor at the European Data Protection Supervisor; former Inspector General for the Protection of Personal Data

“Surveillance for public security purposes. Four pillars of acceptable interference in fundamental right to privacy”

Katarzyna Szymielewicz

co-founder and President of Panoptikon Foundation; Vice-President of European Digital Rights, “Outsourcing” government surveillance to private companies: can we build effective legal barriers to prevent that?”

Scarlet Kim

Legal Officer at Privacy International

“Emerging forms of state surveillance and the right to privacy. Elements of UK - US comparison.”

USE AND MISUSE OF PERSONAL DATA – HORIZONTAL PROTECTION AGAINST PRIVACY VIOLATION

“Three quarters of us don’t trust businesses to do the right thing with our emails, phone numbers, preferences and bank details. I find that shocking.” Elizabeth Denham - Information Commissioner

“We know where you are. We know where you've been. We can more or less know what you're thinking about.” Eric Schmidt

“The internet is watching us now. If they want to. They can see what sites you visit. In the future, television will be watching us, and customizing itself to what it knows about us. The thrilling thing is, that will make us feel we're part of the medium. The scary thing is, we'll lose our right to privacy. An ad will appear in the air around us, talking directly to us.” Steven Spielberg

Julio Naveira President of the Catalan Bar Council

SPEAKERS

Olivier Raynaud Member of Council of the Marseilles Bar Association

“Artificial intelligence and personal data”

Carmen Perez-Andujar Counselor of the Spanish Bar Council
